Social Studies

Kindergarten: Time and Place Unit

Parent letter

Dear Kindergarten Families,

Our class is beginning a new Social Studies unit focused on communities and the places within them. I am excited to help students explore what makes a community meaningful and unique.

Throughout the unit, students will learn that a variety of places can be part of a community, such as:

- playgrounds
- natural areas
- schools
- fire stations
- police stations
- town or city halls

They will also learn that places in a community can be recognized by distinctive features and symbols, such as signs, logos, colours, or shapes that help us understand what a place is and what it is used for.

By the end of the unit, students will work toward the following goals:

- Recognize familiar places in the local community
- Share places that have personal, family, or group meaning

To support this learning, I encourage you to talk with your child at home about:

- places in your neighborhood or local community
- communities your family belongs to (school, sports teams, cultural groups, etc.)
- places that are important to your child or your family, and why they matter

These conversations help children connect their own experiences to what we are learning in class.

Thank you for your support and partnership. If you have any questions, please feel free to reach out.
